It looked like being a long, lonely summer for young Tricia Jones when she split up with boyfriend Adam Hartley. But plucky Tricia had other plans . . .

I DON'T SUPPOSE YOU'LL BE GOING ON THAT CAMPING HOLIDAY NEXT WEEK THEN.

Eventually holiday time arrived and Tricia and Adam were all set to go.

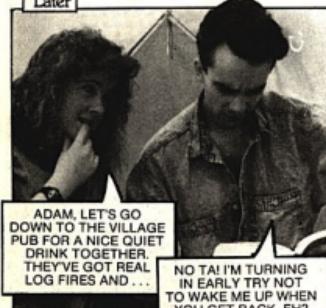

After a long cycle journey
they arrived at the field in the countryside.

Soon they had settled in.

Later

Slightly disappointed,
Tricia wandered off to the pub alone.

Sex earthquake rocks quiet village

I made love to myself - while I watched

A 42 year old man has revealed how he made love to himself while his wife slept nearby.

And Reginald Thompson has stunned neighbours in the quiet village of Banwell with his saucy revelations. "He seemed so quiet", one neighbour told us last night.

FROLICS

Reg's sexy frolics with himself began one night in 1986 after he had spent a quiet evening at home with his wife, Carol. "Carol had gone to bed early and I was alone on the settee", he told us. "I'd had a few drinks and I was feeling very relaxed. The next thing I knew I felt my hand on my shoulder. Seconds later I was rolling around naked on the floor with myself. It seemed like the most natural thing in the world".

The house in Banwell where Thompson's sordid sex sessions took place.

Reg began to have regular solo sex sessions whenever his wife was out of the house. "One minute I'd be in the garden mowing the lawn, and the next minute I'd be in the shed, fondling my own buttocks", he revealed.

Passion volcano erupts showering village with red hot love lava

On one occasion, Reg sat and watched while he made love to himself. "I'd just drunk a bottle of Vodka and was feeling uninhibited. I sat and watched myself in the mirror. It was a fantastic experience, although I had a headache afterwards". Soon Reg was having sex with himself up to three or four times a week. "Sometimes I would just sit in the cupboard under the stairs with my hand on my knee. At other times, I would roll around on the carpet in front of the fire for hours on end. On one occasion, I even knocked the coffee table over and spilt a glass of wine. I only just managed to clean it up before my wife got home".

SESSIONS

Locals at the Kings Head Hotel only 200 yards from the Thompson's semi-detached house, were shocked when they heard of Reg's steamy sex sessions. "He seemed so quiet", one customer told us.

Top lawyers plead poverty

Many top lawyers are having to take on part-time jobs in order to make ends meet. Highly trained barristers and top solicitors are resorting to bar jobs and part-time restaurant work in order to boost their paltry income.

GET BY

One solicitor we spoke to said he worked Saturday mornings collecting litter at MacDonald's restaurant in London's Piccadilly, as well as delivering free newspapers during the evenings. "I still find it hard to get by", he told us. "A colleague has resorted to advertising his services in newsagent's windows as a part-time gardener and handyman", he added.

SURVIVE

Top lawyers feel that with rising mortgage rates and inflation, it's not possible for them to survive charging only £120 per hour for their services. "Unless there is a dramatic increase in our levels of pay, I can see ugly scenes reminiscent of the miners strike breaking out in the Court rooms and the offices of the legal profession", one told us this morning.

MAN 'HAD SEX WITH 2,500 WOMEN' - claim

A Northampton man is claiming to have had sex with 2,500 women over the last five years.

Probably

"Come to think of it, it was probably more like 3,000", he told us yesterday.

TIPTON IS TOP FOR TOURISM

Ask any discerning holiday-maker where he's heading this Summer — and the answer won't be Benidorm, Bermuda or Barbados. It will be Tipton!

This is the astonishing claim made by Mr Hugo Guthrie, chairman of the Tipton Borough Council Committee on Tourism. And he believes that 'Terrific Tipton' will soon be top of the tourist tree.

"At Tipton we have a comprehensive range of amenities to suit holidaymakers of all ages. There's truly something for everyone at Tipton. We've got some smashing countryside with marvellous views only 20 miles the other side of Wolverhampton".

"And for the water sports enthusiast, we've got a very pleasant stretch of river, and plenty of canals. And did you know incidentally, that here in Tipton there are more miles of canal than there are in Stourbridge. Indeed, Tipton has been described as the Venice of the West Midlands".

Tip Top Tipton Tipped as Top Tourist Trap

And according to Mr Guthrie, Tipton certainly isn't lacking in nightlife. "Appearing for the whole Summer season at the Tipton Apollo Theatre, we hope to have the one and only Bernie Clifton and his Comedy Ostrich — as seen on TV".

BOOK EARLY

Holiday-makers intending to visit Tipton are advised to book early, as accommodation will be in short supply. And a final word from Mr Guthrie — he believes Tipton's attractive new tourist slogan says it all. "Tipton — it's terrific".

I AM ROLF'S LOVECHILD

A Nottingham carpet fitter is set to give up his job and travel 24,000 miles around the world in a desperate bid to meet Rolf Harris.

For 38 year old Phillip Judson believes he may be the illegitimate son of the celebrated painter and all-round entertainer. "I believe I may be Rolf Harris's love-child", Phillip told us yesterday.

- STYLOPHONE

He first began to suspect a link with the Australian musician and entertainer during his teens. "I found that I had an un-natural ability to paint large pictures, and only hours after receiving a stylophone for my eighteenth birthday, I had mastered the instrument".

- SWIMMING

As well as his striking resemblance to the veteran Aussie star, Phillip points to his incredible swimming ability as further proof of the connection. "Friends have always remarked how much I looked like Rolf, and I am often mistaken for him in the street. and I can swim four lengths of the local baths — almost, which is probably something else that I inherited from my father".

- JAKE THE PEG

Over the years, Phillip has built up a large collection of Rolf's records, including his sixties hit 'Two Little Boys', and the walls of his Nottingham bedsit are covered with paintings of the Australian landscape and obscure murals. A dusty wobble-board takes pride of place on his mantelpiece.

- DIDGERIDOO

Phillip's mother insists that her husband of 42 years, Derek, is Phillip's true father. "But I'm convinced she's not telling me the whole truth. And now she refuses to talk to me, and has moved house, refusing to tell me where she lives". So Phillip is having to pack his bags and prepare for a round-the-world trip which he hopes will lead to a reunion with his real father.

"Hopefully when I get to Australia we will be reunited at last. I am really looking forward to it. We'll have so much catching up to do".

EXCLUSIVE

Although he has no definite plans at present, Phillip hopes to live in Australia permanently with his father. "I've written to him several times but have not yet received a reply. It must have come as quite a shock to him to know that I am alive".

Gotcha! We expose Britain's latest celebrity tax dodge!

ANIMAL CRACKERS!

Top stars queue up to buy wildebeests, gnus, stoats and platypi

Showbiz celebrities are stocking up on pets in order to avoid paying tax! And the homes of many of today's top stars are beginning to resemble zoos, with more and more animals being purchased in this latest bid to beat the taxman.

A couple of years ago big money earners like Steve Davis, Terry Wogan and Cliff Richard were investing in trees in an attempt to foil the Inland Revenue. But the government acted swiftly to close that loophole, and the word from top financial pundits is now "Buy Animals".

SNAKES

The animals involved range from traditional household pets to more exotic creatures such as snakes, monkeys and even kangaroos. And delighted pet shop owners have never had it so good. They report that wealthy stars are buying anything they can get their hands on.

"I've sold over 200 parrots this week", one shop-keeper told us. "And I've got another 125 on order".

LEOPARDS

Even zoos have been approached by frantic celebrities trying to cash in on this tax dodge. One head keeper told us that several well-known TV personalities had offered him cash in exchange for animals, including leopards, elephants and giraffes.

BANDICOOTS

Tax advisor Kenneth McBride, believes that more and more highly paid show business celebrities, sportsmen and pop stars will soon be jumping on the animal bandwagon. "It may sound like a risky investment, but the savings that are there to be made are enormous. Over twelve months a top earner like Radio DJ Simon Bates could save anything up to half a million pounds in tax by spending the money, for example, on water buffalo".

Latest tax dodge leaves investors 'squids in'

McCartney — crocodiles.

A government spokesman told us that whilst buying animals was not illegal, many required licences, and were not suitable as household pets. He admitted that the government would be keeping an eye on the situation.

THEY'LL TRY ANYTHING TO BEAT THE TAXMAN!

Until recently top celebrities and money earners could expect to loose over half their income in tax. And even now stars like Shakira Stevens must hand over 40p in tax for every pound they earn. Here are just some of the tactics — successful or otherwise — that have been tried in order to beat the taxman.

F Pop star, Leo Sayer, a big money earner in the 70's, took his accountant's advice and lived in a hammock in his back garden for twelve months, never once setting foot on the ground. But the stunt failed, and Sayer was left with back-ache — and a tax bill of over £50,000!

Mick Jagger, a millionaire several times over, eventually moved to France to avoid UK taxes. But not before he had tried several more bizarre methods. One plan, to live in a submarine in the River Thames near Oxford, failed when the vessel sprang a leak. When Jagger eventually surfaced, tax inspectors were waiting to present him with a bill — for £750 million.

Crafty pop star Kylie Minogue came up with a brilliant scheme to beat the Australian taxman. The singer ordered a tanker load of milk from a dairy in the USA. By the time the vessel arrived in Australia the milk had gone off, and so the entire cost of the operation — $1 million — was offset against tax. Later, the ship returned to New York, and during the stormy voyage, the cargo turned into cheese. The ingenious singer then sold the lot — at a profit of over $10 million!

The Man On The Telly

Mickey's MINIATURE Grandpa

AFTER HAVING AN ARGUMENT WITH A MYSTERIOUS GYPSY, MICKEY MARSTON'S GRANDPA BECAME CONVINCED THAT HE WAS THE VICTIM OF A CURSE WHICH HAD CAUSED HIM TO SHRINK TO A REMARKABLE FOUR INCHES IN HEIGHT!

Are today's popstars REALLY good looking?

The phenomenal success of stars like Bros and Brother Beyond has led to comparisons with sixties Beatlemania and the scenes of "Rollermania" surrounding the Bay City Rollers in the mid-seventies. Girls are screaming louder than ever at their favourite stars. But are the pop stars of today REALLY that good looking?

We all know that today's stars have talent. Who hasn't? They can sing, write good songs and produce hit records to prove it. But are they REALLY good-looking, or are the record buying public being conned?

FANS

One man who fears that the fans are being ripped off is former record shop owner, Ron Brown. He claims that over the last ten years there has been a steady decline in the number of good-looking pop stars, up to the point where today they are almost extinct.

UNATTRACTIVE

"Record companies know that by producing good records with catchy tunes, they can get away with unattractive and plain looking pop stars. Nowadays nine out of ten pop stars are unattractive. It's frightening when you think about it. Kids are simply throwing their money down the drain."

ROLLERS

"Ten years ago it would have been unheard of. You had the likes of Donny Osmond, Leo Sayer, David Cassidy and the Rollers. But nowadays you have to go a long way to find a remotely good-looking pop star".

SPECIAL REPORT

Among today's stars that Ron singles out for criticism are top group Bros, Jason Donovan and Brother Beyond. "Bros are in no way attractive", he told us. "They've got long droopy necks and their ears protrude. And Jason Donovan has got big feet", he added.

As far as Brother Beyond were concerned, he admitted that Nathan was alright looking. "But he's very short, and the other three are hopelessly unattractive".

CURLING TONGS

A spokesman for EMI records denied that the record companies were trying to 'cover up' unattractive pop stars. "All our artists are good-looking. We don't deal with mediocre looking groups. It simply wouldn't be good for business. And I am sure you will find that's the case with all record companies". Meanwhile a spokesman for A & M records refused to comment on the suggestion that Chris de Burgh has a stupid pudding basin haircut and daft bushy eyebrows that meet in the middle.

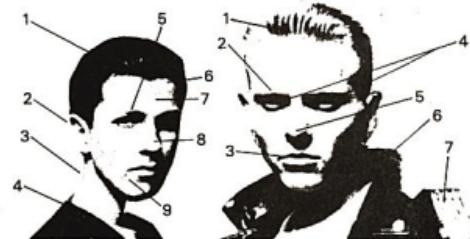

- Or are the kids being ripped off?

BROS: THE TRUTH

A lack of good looks has been the downfall of many a would-be pop star. The Beatles were rumoured to have dropped drummer Pete Best because of his mediocre appearance, and replaced him with the stunning Ringo Starr. And at the height of their success, the Bay City Rollers gave Alan the elbow — he simply wasn't dishy enough. And now history has repeated itself with Bros star Ken being shown the red card.

But was he really any worse looking than Matt and Luke? Here, in a detailed scientific analysis, we compare his good looks to those of Matt and Luke, and reveal the truth. Were the Goss twins REALLY better looking than Ken? You'll find the answer right here.

- (1) Hair is flat and unexciting.
 (2) Ear is too big and has no earring.
 (3) Thin neck suggests lack of strength.
 (4) Collarless jacket looks limp and floppy.
 (5) Unremarkable eyebrows.
 (6) Boring hairline.
 (7) Plain, rounded and dull looking face.
 (8) Slightly wobbly nose.
 (9) Spots.

Barney Brimstone's BISCUIT TIN CIRCUS

Young ex-circus Barney Brimstone was the luckiest lad in the remote Scottish fishing village of Invermure — for he had a biscuit tin with a difference. Unlike his pals' biscuit tins, Barney's contained a fabulous miniature circus.

After breakfast, Barney went to the harbour to investigate.

12 THINGS YOU NEVER KNEW ABOUT THE ROYAL FAMILY

We read about the Royals in our newspapers every day. We see them on TV and occasionally shake their hands or give them flowers in the street. Indeed, with so much media attention focusing on our favourite family, many of us feel we have truly come to know the Royals, and see them as friends more than just public figures.

But believe it or not, there are still a few unusual facts you may not know about our marvellous Monarchy. For instance, did you know that . . .

1 As a child, Prince Charles was known as 'Big Foot' among the Royal Family. For at the age of five he had developed incredible size nine feet! Eventually his gigantic feet stopped growing and nowadays are more or less in proportion to the rest of his body.

2 Prince Edward developed theatrical tendencies at a very early age. The young Prince was regularly entertaining palace guests with his spectacular one-man song and dance show — at the tender age of four.

3 Before joining the Navy, Prince Andrew yearned for a career as a train driver. So much so that on his tenth birthday, the young Prince was given a very special train set to play with — a full size steam locomotive and twelve carriages. Throughout his teenage years, Andrew could regularly be seen driving his train at speeds of up to 100 miles per hour on the Edinburgh to London railway line, accompanied on the footplate by his father, the Duke of Edinburgh.

4 Princess Anne's show-jumping career couldn't have got off to a worse start. For the young Princess was born with an allergy to the animals. Indeed the wif of a horse alone was enough to turn Anne's skin purple and leave her temporarily blinded. It was the Queen Mother who eventually found a remedy for her ailment after several leading doctors had failed. She told Anne to sleep with a crushed walnut under her pillow and the Princess has never looked back.

5 The Queen's favourite snack isn't salmon or caviar as you might expect. She prefers a tin of pineapple rings in syrup.

The Queen — likes pineapple.

Philip — shot koala bear.

Indeed, during a state visit to India in 1962, the Royal Yacht Britannia was forced to make a 2,000 mile detour to the East African coast in order to stock up on the tinned fruit after supplies had run out.

6 Phillip is not the Duke of Edinburgh's real name. He was originally christened Norman, but changed his name by Deed Poll shortly before his engagement to Elizabeth was announced. At the time the Queen's parents felt that Norman didn't sound royal enough!

7 Before marrying the Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen had been romantically linked with several eligible bachelors of the day, among them Hollywood film star, James Cagney. Another former Royal escort was football star, Sir Stanley Matthews.

8 King Edward is the only member of the Royal Family to have played professional cricket. Aged 17, he spent one season on the books of Leicestershire County Cricket Club. He batted for them only once, scoring a measly three runs. And the man who bowled him out? A certain W. Churchill — later to become Britain's best-known Prime Minister.

was left free for the exclusive use of the Royal Family. In the words of the Highways Act of 1872, this was to "enable their Royal Highnesses to travel swiftly and without hindrance and free from such encumbrances as other motor vehicles would provide". In 1912, the government bowed to public pressure and allowed regular traffic to use both sides of the road. In 1923, after a series of traffic accidents, a bill was put before Parliament to allow vehicles travelling in opposite directions to use different sides of the road.

11 During the Second World War, emergency plans were drawn up to safeguard the Royal Family in the event of a German invasion. One of several plans considered was to disguise them as a travelling circus troupe, and send them across the country, performing from town to town. It was hoped that their thick theatrical make-up and extravagant colourful costumes would fool the Germans.

12 Despite the extravagant forms of transport available to the Royal Family — a Royal yacht, Royal Train, elegant horse-drawn carriages, etc. The Queen often uses public transport when travelling short distances. On one occasion the driver of a London bus fainted when the Queen stepped on board and asked for a single fare to Windsor. While the driver recovered, the Queen happily signed autographs for her fellow passengers.

PRINCESS DI STOLE MY MAN - Charlie is MY darling

A 45 year-old mother of two is claiming that she is the rightful heir to the throne of England. For she believes that Prince Charles went back on a promise to marry her, and wed Princess Diana instead. And she intends to sue the Prince for substantial damages.

Fairground worker Mavis McGee, who has since married and had children, claims she met the Prince while working at a Fairground in Scotland during the mid-sixties.

"I was working on an amusement arcade at a fairground in Scotland at the time, and the Prince must have been on a fishing holiday somewhere nearby. He popped in to get some change for the bandits", she told us. "I knew he fancied me because he kept looking at me in a funny way and smiling".

"Later, one of his bodyguards came to my caravan with a note from the Prince". The note, which Mavis treasures to this very day, reads "I fancy you lots and want to go out with you. Meet me by the Ghost Train at 2 o'clock". It was signed simply "Prince Charles".

GENERALOUS

Mavis claims she kept the date and spent the afternoon with Charles. "He was very generous", she recalls. "He paid for all the rides, and bought me a toffee apple, chips and everything. Then he asked me if I'd go out with him to the pictures".

KISSING

That evening Charles took Mavis to see a film at the local cinema. "I don't recall the name of the film, as we spent the whole evening kissing and cuddling in the back row". Mavis claims it was there that Charles proposed to her.

"He took out a pen-knife and carved our names on the seat in front of us. 'Charles + Mavis = True Love forever' were the words he wrote.

darling

They're probably still there, although I've forgotten the name of the cinema, and where it was. Then he said to me "Will you marry me", and I said "Yes".

TRUE LOVE

Sceptics have dismissed Mavis's claims as untrue, and have even suggested that her motives for making them are financial gain. But she refutes these allegations, and says she can prove conclusively that her story is true.

"I agreed to marry Charles on the condition that he proved his love by having my name tattooed on his arm. He agreed, and a friend of mine who was a tattooist did it for him. The tattoo, on his right forearm, is of a naked lady with 'Mavis — True Love' written beneath. Anyone who doesn't believe me only has to look at his arm. Unless of course he has had it removed to avoid embarrassment, which he probably has".

Di and Charles — bizarre love triangle.

Mr Ted McBride, the solicitor acting on Mavis's behalf estimated that she could receive damages of anything up to £1 million if the case were to come to Court. "However, in order to save the Prince of Wales from further embarrassment, Mrs McGee would be willing to accept a far smaller sum — say £500 — in an out of Court settlement", he added.

That's my CARPET

As you probably know, the kind of carpets a person prefers says a lot about their personality. That's because the carpet you choose is as individual as your fingerprint itself.

And today's top TV celebrities are no different. They all have their own individual tastes in floor coverings. For example, a top romantic novelist like Barbara Cartland may well prefer a soft, pink carpet with a deep pile, whereas no-nonsense tough-guy 'Boon' actor, Michael Elphick, would prefer an economical hard-wearing plain berber.

What kind of carpet would you like? Here's your chance to win the carpet of your dreams. We're giving away twelve carpet squares to the first person who can correctly match the four carpets shown here to their celebrity owners. And when you've done that, use your skill and judgement to identify the owner of the fifth mystery carpet.

Send your entries, on a postcard, to Celebrity Carpet Squares, Viz, PO Box 1PT, Newcastle upon Tyne NE99 1PT, to arrive by post.

Although every effort has been made to maintain accuracy, we cannot guarantee that the carpets shown belong to the celebrities named.

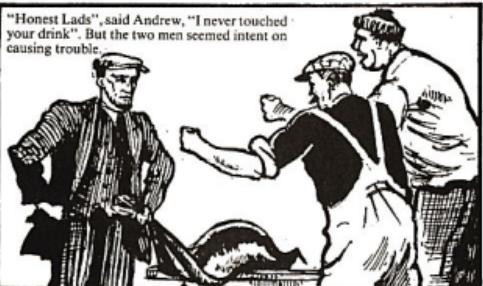

Black BAG

THE FAITHFUL
BORDER BIN LINER

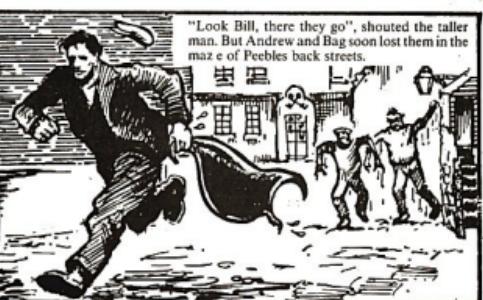

Andrew had his usual Vimto, but Bag was more interested in the brown liquid the men were drinking. He flopped over to investigate when they left.

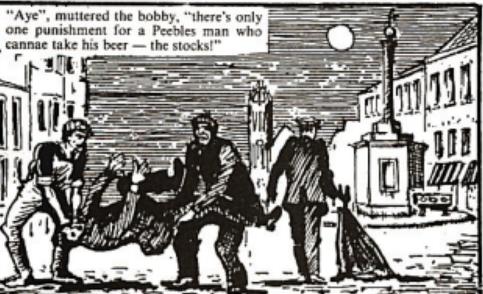

"Honest Lads", said Andrew, "I never touched your drink". But the two men seemed intent on causing trouble.

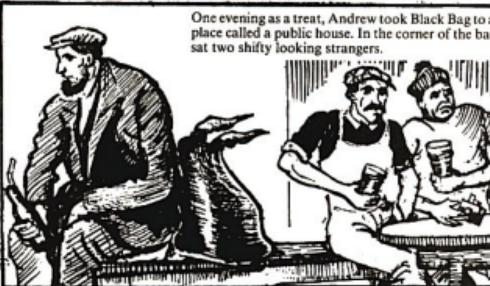

"Look Bill, there they go", shouted the taller man. But Andrew and Bag soon lost them in the maze of Peebles back streets.

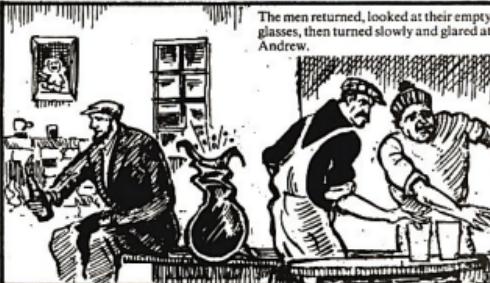

"Aye", muttered the bobby, "there's only one punishment for a Peebles man who cannot take his beer — the stocks!"

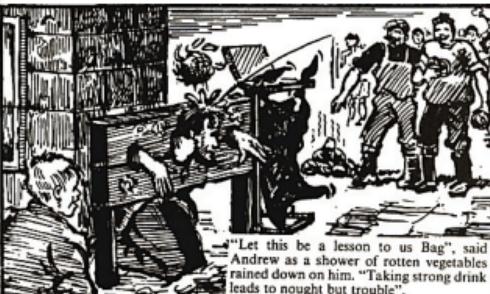

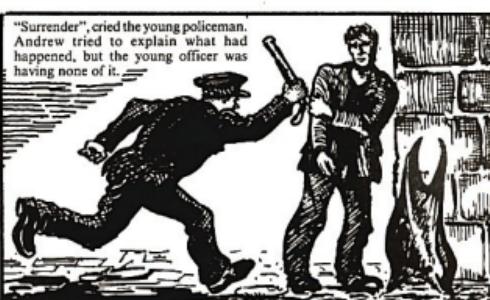

One evening as a treat, Andrew took Black Bag to a place called a public house. In the corner of the bar sat two shifty looking strangers.

The men returned, looked at their empty glasses, then turned slowly and glared at Andrew.

But before the vicious thugs could land a blow, Andrew stepped smartly aside and unleashed Bag on the men, showering them with beer.

"Let this be a lesson to us Bag", said Andrew as a shower of rotten vegetables rained down on him. "Taking strong drink leads to nought but trouble".

I AM THE CHOSEN ONE

- Vision of God

changed Bill's life

52 year old Bill Burton's life was changed completely the day he discovered God. For Bill claims to have been spoken to by a vision of the Lord which appeared before him one day while he was working alone in his back garden.

"My life before then had been meaningless", Bill told us from the garden of his home in Dudley, West Midlands. In fact, Bill hadn't set foot in a church for 25 years, and had just been made redundant from his job in an electrical suppliers. With no savings to speak of, he was not looking forward to his early retirement. Then came the vision that changed his life.

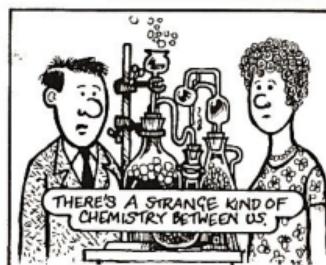

"At last I felt as if I had a purpose. Things began to fall in to place. Suddenly I knew the answers to all life's questions — like 'What are we here for?' I had discovered God, and that had made me complete".

TEMPLE

From that moment onwards, Bill's life has been entirely devoted to worship and to preaching the word of the Lord. "When God spoke to me, he gave me a task to perform. He told me to build a chapel — a temple of worship — in his name, and to build it in my back garden at the exact point where his vision appeared".

FOREHEAD

According to Bill, God's instructions were explicit. "He said it should be of brick construction, with a corrugated iron roof, and it should have an 84 inch aluminium up-and-over door".

"God also specified that it should be wired with multiple electric sockets, and have fitted shelving at about shoulder height on either side. And he generously said that when it wasn't being used for worship, I could use it to park my car and keep my tools in".

WIRING

But carrying out the Lord's work has been difficult for Bill, and it has been necessary for him to launch a fund-raising campaign to raise the necessary cash. "The cheapest estimate I have so far is for £700 plus VAT, and that doesn't include the wiring", he told us.

DOUBLE GLAZING

"All in all the chapel will cost around £1,000 to build, but when it's finished it will be a worthy monument to the Lord, and as God pointed out to me, there is a definite shortage of places of worship in the area at present".

PATIO DOOR

Bill hopes that his fund-raising crusade will help bring God closer to others, and that they will share in the joys he has discovered. "God's hand is outstretched", Bill told us. "People need only reach out, and they will find Him".

You can send your donations to Bill, c/o The Church of God's Vision Appeal, PO Box 25, Dudley. All cheques should be made payable to Bill Burton.

RECORD BREAKER!

Two-ton Tait tops Top Ten tree!

Tyneside tunesmith ANDREW TAIT has carved a niche for himself in the annals of pop history — along with such great names as Jimi Hendrix, John Lennon and Elvis Presley. For Andrew has become the first ever popstar to buy his way into the Viz Top Ten with a three figure bribe, and he did it in true style — handing over a massive £200.01 to secure himself a place in pop history — and the prized number one position in this issue's chart.

Andrew who went to school with the guitarist out of Dire Straits' brother, was recently seen on the James Whale TV show performing 'Newcastle Is My Home', just one track from his sensational debut stereo cassette Songs From The Heart Of The Primal Goat. Other tracks include the incredible 'How To Get The Best From Your Telephone' — once described as "very amusing" by a world renowned comedian. The tape also features an introduction by light-hearted investigative TV-journalist Doc Cox, ageing sidekick of toothsome TV campaigner Esther Rantzen.

TRUMPET

Andrew, 30, hopes that chart success will catapult him from his humble job as a trumpet tutor to international stardom and appearances on happening youth TV shows like 'Club X' and 'Def II'. And you can help put him on that road to success by buying a copy of his cassette. It's not available in the shops, so simply send a £5.00 note (plus a 28p SAE) to Music By Arrangement, PO Box 04, 30 Clayton Road, Newcastle upon Tyne NE2 4RQ. TV producers and top record company executives can also contact Andrew at the same address.

MUSTARD

Dogs D'Amour's best bid of £50.00 looked pale in comparison to ANDREW TAIT'S record-breaking effort. And the £40.00 mustered by Fetch This to buy them the number three slot looked like pocket money alongside ANDREW TAIT'S colossal contribution.

Another picture of Andrew Tait

And a bevy of other lack-lustre artists jostled for the remaining positions, like squabbling vultures round a rotting carcass while Andrew, now one of our best friends, soared proudly above them like a magnificent golden eagle at the pinnacle of the chart.

The Ogdens — No.9

This issue's Hall of Shame is made up of the usual array of wretched, miserly artists, whose pathetic penny pinching has left them with no chart placings at all. Between them they wasted a total of £39.58 — less than a quarter of ANDREW TAIT'S marvellous bribe. For the record this issue's also-rans were Pete Smith (Pigmeat Pete Goes To Town) £1.00, Killer Rabbits (Dodgy Derek Etc) £10.01, Blammo (Drastic Plastic) £9.99 and The Driscolls (Doctor Good And His Incredible Life-Saving Soup) £8.58.

Andrew Tait hands over the magnificent cheque for £200.01 to the reigning Miss Viz Top Ten, Cindy Smallpiece (36-24-36).

GOD'S LITTLE MONKEYS from York, regret to announce a delay in the release of their 'New Maps Of Hell' LP now due out in September. But they have a double 'A' sided single, 'Sound Out The Symbols/Sed Never Dry' out now on Cooking Vinyl records.

Sheffield's BLAMMO! released their flexi single 'Drastic Plastic' to benefit the Rock Against ID Cards campaign for football grounds. You can support them by ordering copies for only £1.00 each from P Watson, 103 Olive Grove Road, Low Fields, Sheffield.

The RAN TAN BAND'S cassette 'The Big Cheese' is available for £5.50 (inc. P+P) from 'Le Grande Fromage', 25 Church Road, Leyland, Lancs. PR5 1EJ.

Spare a thought for Sunderland's TROUBLESHOOTERS and Kingston's THE TRUDY. They couldn't muster a penny between them, both pleading poverty.
